

Website Design Mein

You are designing and building the Mein website.

Do NOT design this as a traditional corporate website, school programme website, nonprofit page, coaching website, SaaS landing page, or generic AI-generated template.

Mein should feel like a mobile-first youth movement space: part streetwear drop, part creative wall, part future-self portal, part social feed, and part community sign-up hub.

The primary audience is young people aged 13–25. The site must make them feel:

- I am safe here.
- I belong here.
- This brand gets me.
- I can create.
- I can speak.
- I can build.
- I can become.
- I want to be part of this movement.

The site should also remain credible enough for parents, schools, sponsors, and partners to trust.

CORE BRAND IDEA

Mein is a youth movement for young people building who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time.

Primary tagline:

Live your future today.

Homepage headline:

Building the right Mein Set.

Mein Mover definition:

A Mein Mover is someone building who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time. Any form of participation in Mein makes someone a Mein Mover.

BRAND FEEL

The website should feel:

- Youthful
- Safe
- Bold
- Expressive
- Hopeful
- Mobile-native
- Slightly rebellious but still positive
- Creative
- Movement-led
- Streetwear-inspired
- Future-facing
- Human and authentic

It should NOT feel:

- Corporate
- Robotic
- Generic
- Template-based
- Like a school brochure
- Like a government youth programme
- Like a therapy website
- Like a plain ecommerce store
- Like a standard “hero + three cards + CTA” AI design

BRAND COLOURS

Use the Mein brand palette:

Electric Blue: #2F6BFF

Use as the primary energy colour for buttons, icons, active states, movement graphics, section accents, and key CTAs.

Optimistic Gold: #F4B400

Use sparingly as an accent for stars, badges, handwritten highlights, small arrows, featured tags, and moments of hope.

Charcoal: #111111

Use for strong type, contrast, and serious text.

Support Gray: #E6E9EE

Use for soft cards, dividers, form panels, and background blocks.

White / light neutral:

Use generous clean space. The design should breathe.

TYPOGRAPHY

Use a modern geometric sans-serif similar to Sora for headings and interface text.

Use a handwritten accent style similar to Caveat only for small human notes, prompts, scribbles, captions, stickers, or emotional callouts.

Avoid childish fonts and overly corporate fonts.

VISUAL LANGUAGE

Use the Open M icon as a recurring movement symbol.

Use:

- Portal / doorway shapes
- Path lines
- Movement arrows
- Doodle accents
- Sticker-like tags
- Youth wall cards
- Swipeable mobile cards
- Handwritten notes

- Cutout image treatments
- Story-style content blocks
- Asymmetrical but intentional layouts
- Real, expressive youth energy

Avoid:

- Generic stock photos
- Overused blobs
- Perfectly symmetrical template sections
- Generic flat icons
- Corporate blue gradients
- Long blocks of text
- Too many cards that look identical
- Overuse of gold
- Heavy neon effects on the core logo

SITE STRUCTURE

Build the site as a movement hub with fewer main pages and strong interactive sections.

Primary navigation should be youth-facing:

Start Here

Join Mein

Make Your Move

Stories

Future Me

Shop

Footer / secondary navigation:

Why This Matters

Parents & Consent

Schools & Partners

Community Rules

Contact

Privacy Policy

Terms

On mobile, include a sticky bottom CTA:

Make Your Move

The mobile experience is the priority. Design mobile first, then adapt to desktop.

HOME PAGE DIRECTION

The homepage should not begin like a traditional website. It should invite action quickly.

Hero section:

Headline:

Building the right Mein Set.

Supporting line:

A youth movement for young people ready to build who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time.

Primary CTA:

Join the Movement

Secondary CTA:

See the Stories

Small line:

Create. Express. Build. Become.

The first interaction after the hero should ask:

What move are you making today?

Then show four bold mobile-first cards:

Create

Submit art, writing, ideas, designs, photography, poetry, or creative work.

Speak

Upload a video, share a story, or send a future-self message.

Build

Explore the youth entrepreneur route and start shaping an idea.

Represent

Apply as a Mein content creator or youth voice.

Each card should feel like a mission card, not a normal feature card.

Use labels like:

Move 01

Move 02

Move 03

Move 04

The CTA on each card should be:

Make this move

HOMEPAGE SECTIONS

1. Hero / Movement Entry

Use the Open M icon, portal/path visual, bold typography, Electric Blue accents, and gold doodle marks.

2. Choose Your Move

Interactive swipeable move cards: Create, Speak, Build, Represent.

3. Why You Belong Here

Headline:

You belong before you have it all figured out.

Copy:

Mein is built to be a safe space for young people to express themselves, try ideas, tell stories, and take steps toward their future. You do not have to be perfect, popular, loud, or certain. You just have to be willing to make one move.

Include safety note:

Public features are reviewed before posting. Young people under 18 need parent or guardian consent before names, images, videos, or social handles are shared.

4. The Wall / Stories Preview

Instead of a normal blog preview, create a youth wall.

Use cards for:

Future-self letters

Mein Mover videos

Creative submissions

Youth stories

Art gallery

Writing

Behind-the-scenes merch drops

Section headline:

Real moves. Real stories. Real futures.

CTA:

Explore the Stories

5. Meet Future Me Teaser

Headline:

Meet the future you.

Copy:

Meet Future Me is a guided experience where young people imagine who they are becoming, speak as their future self, and use that message to build confidence, clarity, and action today.

CTA:

Explore Future Me

6. Shop Teaser

Headline:

Wear what you're building.

Copy:

Mein merch is more than clothing. It is a reminder that your future is already in motion.

CTA:

Shop the Drop

7. Final CTA

Headline:

Ready to make your move?

Copy:

Join Mein and start building who you are becoming.

CTA:

Become a Mein Mover

This is the About page but do not make it feel formal.

Headline:

Mein is for the person you're becoming.

Copy:

It is for the version of you that is still forming. The dream you are still figuring out. The idea you are scared to start. The story you have not told yet. The future you are ready to step into.

Include section:

What does Mein mean?

Cards:

Me in the future — the person I am becoming.

Me in 10 years — the bigger version of what I can become.

Me in the story — I am not left out of my own future.

Me in motion — I am not waiting. I am moving.

Section:

Because young people need more than advice.

Copy:

Young people need space to be seen, heard, guided, and supported. They need real ways to express who they are, explore what they care about, and take steps toward the life they want.

PAGE: JOIN MEIN

This page should be the main conversion page.

Headline:

Become a Mein Mover.

Copy:

A Mein Mover is someone building who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time.

Any form of participation in Mein makes you a Mein Mover. You do not have to be famous, perfect, confident, or already successful. You just have to be willing to make a move.

CTA:

Join the Movement

Include cards:

You are creative.

You have a story to tell.

You want to build something.
You are still figuring things out.
You want to be part of something positive.
You want your future to feel possible.

This should be an interactive form hub, not a long boring form page.

Headline:

Your next move starts here.

Copy:

You do not need to know every step. Choose one move and start there.

First question:

How do you want to make your move?

Options:

Join the movement

Submit creative work

Apply as content creator

Upload video

Youth entrepreneur interest

Partner/sponsor interest

School/programme inquiry

General contact

Based on the option selected, reveal the relevant form.

Keep forms short, friendly, and mobile-first.

For users under 18, include parent/guardian consent requirements before public display.

Form confirmation message should NOT be generic.

Use:

Your move has landed.

This page should feel like a curated youth expression wall, not a blog.

The Wall

Alternative:

Mein Moves

Headline:

Real moves. Real stories. Real futures.

Copy:

See what young people are creating, saying, building, and becoming through Mein.

Use filter chips:

Future-Self Letters

Mein Mover Videos

Youth Stories

Creative Submissions

Art Gallery

Writing

Behind the Scenes

Merch Drops

Card style:

Image/video thumbnail

Category tag

Short quote or teaser

Approved display name if consent provided

Consent/review indicator where relevant

Safety note:

All public youth features are reviewed before posting. For young people under 18, parent or guardian consent is required before names, images, videos, social handles, or creative work are shared.

Empty state:

The first Mein stories are coming soon. Want yours to be one of them?

CTA:

Submit Your Move

PAGE: FUTURE ME

Headline:

Meet the future you.

Copy:

Meet Future Me is a guided experience where you imagine who you are becoming, speak as your future self, and use that message to build confidence, clarity, and action today.

How it works:

1. Imagine your future self
2. Step into that version of you
3. Record the message
4. Listen to your own belief
5. Make your next move

Key line:

Sometimes the voice you need to hear is your own.

CTA:

I Want to Meet Future Me

Design:

Use portal, mirror, doorway, or future-self visual language. Make it feel emotional and aspirational, not like a class activity.

PAGE: SHOP

Shopify will handle products, cart, checkout, orders, and payments.

The website should link to Shopify and may show product previews.

Headline:

Wear what you're building.

Copy:

Mein merch is more than clothing. It is a reminder that your future is already in motion.

CTA:

Shop the Drop

Include line:

This page is for parents, schools, sponsors, and partners.

Headline:

Young people need more than motivation.

Copy:

They need space to be seen, tools to grow, opportunities to express themselves, and support to take real steps toward their future.

Include sections:

PAGE: PARENTS & CONSENT

Headline:

Keeping young people safe while helping them be seen.

Copy:

Mein gives young people space to express themselves, but public sharing is handled with care, review, and consent.

Include FAQ accordion:

DESIGN RULES

Every section must answer at least one of these:

Does this make a young person feel safe?
Does this make them feel seen?
Does this make them want to create, speak, build, or represent?
Does this feel like a movement rather than a brochure?
Would a 17-year-old stop scrolling for this?

If not, redesign the section.

Do not use placeholder/lorem ipsum in the main concept. Use the real Mein copy above.

DELIVERABLE EXPECTATION

Start by building a distinctive mobile-first homepage prototype before building the full site.

The first prototype should show:

1. The first 5 seconds of the homepage
2. The first scroll
3. The "What move are you making today?" interaction

4. The Move Cards
5. The Stories / Wall preview
6. The Make Your Move form entry
7. The Meet Future Me teaser
8. The Shop teaser

The priority is originality, youth energy, clarity, safety, and movement identity.

Do not produce a generic AI landing page.

Build a website that feels like Mein has its own world.

1. Brand Foundation

Brand Name

Mein is the umbrella brand name. It should be written as "Mein" in normal usage: capital M, lowercase e, lowercase i, lowercase n. The wordmark treatment includes a subtle blue path accent on the i, but the name should always remain readable as Mein.

Meaning of the Name

- Me in the future: the person I am becoming.
- Me in 10 years: a symbolic future-self identity.
- Me in the story: a young person actively included in shaping their own life.
- Me in motion: not waiting for the future, but building it today.

Mission

To provide young people with tools, support, hope, and direction to shape the future they desire.

Vision

A generation of young people who can clearly see who they are becoming and feel empowered to take practical steps toward that future today.

Brand Promise

Mein helps young people reverse engineer who they were always meant to be.

Core Transformation

From confusion, low motivation, and uncertainty → clarity, hope, purpose, and action.

Core Emotion

Hope. The brand should make young people feel that their future is not distant, abstract, or unreachable. It is something they can step into and shape now.

2. Brand Architecture

Layer	Name / Line	Role
Umbrella Brand	Mein	The main youth lifestyle and personal development brand.
Signature Programme	Meet Future Me	The guided video interview experience where a young person projects into their older/future self and speaks back to their present self.
Core Tagline	Live your future today.	The main public-facing promise and merch-ready line.
Merch / Movement Phrase	I'm building it.	A short, active phrase for apparel, stickers, youth campaigns, and social posts.

3. Audience & Positioning

Primary Audience

Young people aged 14 to 18 who may be confused, uncertain, discouraged, shy, confident, ambitious, creative, distracted, or unclear about what they want to do with their lives.

Secondary Audience

Parents and guardians who want to help their children gain hope, clarity, purpose, and direction in a way that feels modern, engaging, and not preachy.

Audience Balance

The brand should be approximately 70% youth-facing and 30% parent-confidence. It must be cool enough for teens to wear and credible enough for parents to trust.

POSITIONING

Mein is a bold youth empowerment brand that helps young people live their future today by seeing, hearing, and stepping into the person they are becoming.

Differentiator

Mein is not just motivational content. It creates an experience where young people can live their future today by interviewing themselves as their future self, then using that self-generated pep talk to build clarity and action.

4. Brand Voice & Messaging

Voice Attributes

Hopeful	Creates emotional lift without sounding unrealistic.
Bold	Feels active, confident, and youth-culture ready.
Personal	Speaks directly to the young person in first-person language.
Future-Facing	Always points toward growth, becoming, and next steps.
Authentic	Avoids clichés, fake hype, or preachy motivation.
Energetic	Uses short, active language that moves people to act.

Primary Tagline

Live your future today.

This is the best core tagline because it is short, active, merch-friendly, and captures the central idea: the future is not only something to imagine; it is something to practice now.

Supporting Lines

- I'm building it.
- Building me. Becoming me.
- Small steps today. Big future tomorrow.
- It's you, upgraded.
- Be who you're becoming.

Messaging Principles

- Speak in first person when possible: "I am building it," "I can see where I'm going," "I am becoming."
- Avoid heavy institutional language in youth-facing materials.
- Use clear, punchy phrases for merch and social media.
- Use more explanatory language for parents, schools, partners, and sponsors.

5. Logo System

Final Direction

The final identity system uses the Open M icon together with the refined Mein wordmark. The icon provides the commercial, wearable symbol. The wordmark gives the brand name clarity and distinction.

Primary Logo	Combines the Open M icon with the Mein wordmark and the programme line MEET FUTURE ME. Use for formal brand contexts, presentations, websites, certificates, parent-facing materials, and programme documents.
Icon Only: Open M	The main standalone symbol. Use for T-shirts, hoodies, caps, social avatars, app icons, stickers, water bottles, notebook covers, badges, and youth-facing campaign assets.
Wordmark Only	Can be used when space is horizontal or when the name needs to be clear. The blue path accent on the i should remain subtle and should never make the i look like an l.
Monochrome	Use the monochrome black or white versions when printing limitations, embroidery, embossing, or single-colour applications require it.

6. Colour Palette

The palette is intentionally tight so the brand feels memorable and easy to reproduce across digital, print, and merchandise.

Colour	Hex	Use
 Electric Blue	#2F6BFF	Primary energy colour. Used for the Open M icon, accents, digital UI, and youth-facing campaign moments.
 Optimistic Gold	#F4B400	Hope, future opportunity, achievement, and the doorway/accent within the icon.
 Charcoal	#111111	Primary wordmark and high-contrast text colour.
 White	#DDDDDD	Primary background and clean-space colour.
 Support Gray	#E6E9EE	Soft dividers, cards, subtle backgrounds, and layout support.

Colour Use Rules

- Electric Blue should be the most recognisable brand colour.
- Optimistic Gold should be used sparingly as an accent, not as the dominant colour.
- Charcoal should carry the wordmark and serious text elements.
- White space is part of the brand: keep layouts clean and uncluttered.
- Support Gray should be used for cards, dividers, subtle backgrounds, and presentation structure.

7. Typography

Primary Typeface	Sora
Best For	Headings, wordmark direction, structured layouts, social templates, presentation titles, and digital interfaces.
Character	Modern, geometric, slightly futuristic, and still friendly.
Accent Typeface	Caveat (Handwriting)
Best For	Handwritten notes, youth prompts, merch phrases, workbook highlights, and personal future-self reflections. Use as accent only — not for long body text.

Typography Rules

- Use bold geometric sans-serif typography for confidence and clarity.
- Use handwriting only for emotional emphasis, prompts, and human warmth.
- Keep programme text such as MEET FUTURE ME spaced, clean, and uppercase.
- Avoid overly childish fonts or overly corporate fonts.

8. Visual Language

Mein should feel like a cool youth lifestyle brand and a creative self-discovery movement. It should not feel like a school logo, a therapy brand, or a corporate training programme.

Graphic Elements

- Open doorway / portal shape: possibility and entering the future self.
- Path accent: growth, progress, and movement toward the person I am becoming.
- Doodle accents: crowns, arrows, smile marks, stars, underlines, and light hand-drawn marks.
- Clean cards and grids: credibility for parents and partners.
- Merch-ready iconography: bold, simple, high-contrast, scalable shapes.

Photography Direction

Photography should show real youth energy: confident, expressive, natural, future-facing, and diverse. Avoid staged 'school brochure' imagery. The brand should feel lived-in and wearable.

9. Applications & Merchandising

The brand has been designed to move beyond a programme logo and into a youth-culture identity that young people can wear, share, and use across digital and physical spaces.

Priority Applications

T-Shirts	Use the full lockup on front chest or the Open M icon as a clean standalone chest mark.
Hoodies	Use the Open M icon large on the back, with Mein or the tagline in smaller placement.
Caps	Use the Open M icon as a patch or embroidered mark.
Stickers	Use icon-only and full-lockup die-cut stickers.
App / Social Icon	Use the Open M inside an electric-blue rounded square.
Notebooks & Journals	Use the full lockup for programme materials and the Open M for premium covers.
Tote Bags & Water Bottles	Use the full lockup or the Open M icon depending on space.
Worksheets & Interview Cards	Use the full lockup and programme line for clarity.

10. Usage Guidelines

✓ DO	✗ DO NOT
• Use the Open M icon for merch, social, stickers, app icons, and youth-facing moments. • Use the full lockup when the audience needs to understand the brand name and programme line. • Keep generous white space around the logo. • Maintain high contrast: blue/gold on white, white/gold on blue, or black/white for monochrome. • Keep the path accent on the i subtle and readable.	• Do not make the i in Mein look like an l. • Do not overuse gold or add too many colours. • Do not add heavy neon effects to the core logo. Neon/glow can be used only as a campaign effect. • Do not stretch, rotate, or distort the Open M icon. • Do not crowd the logo with too many doodles, slogans, or decorative marks.

11. Brand Kit Visuals

The following boards represent the current visual direction and should guide the next stage of vector development and final design production.

LOGO LOCKUP BOARD

Final logo lockup direction: Open M icon + refined Mein wordmark. Includes full lockup, icon only, wordmark only, and monochrome variations.

FULL BRAND KIT BOARD

Full brand kit showing logo system, palette, voice attributes, typography choices, and merchandise application examples.

12. Recommended Next Steps

- Create clean vector artwork for the Open M icon, wordmark, full lockup, monochrome lockup, and app/social icon.
- Test the name Mein for pronunciation, trademark availability, domain availability, and social media handles before public launch.
- Create a small teen feedback test: show the icon, wordmark, T-shirt, and app icon to 10–15 young people and ask what they read, feel, and would wear.
- Develop a starter design kit: Canva/Figma templates for social posts, worksheet covers, interview cards, journal pages, certificate, and presentation slides.
- Produce two merch prototypes: a black cap with Open M patch and a white/black T-shirt with the primary lockup or icon-only version.
- Build a short brand launch message explaining: Mein means me in the future, me in 10 years, and the person I am becoming.

FINAL DIRECTION

Mein should move forward with the Open M icon, refined Mein wordmark, programme line "Meet Future Me", and tagline "Live your future today." This creates a brand that is youthful, wearable, hopeful, and clear enough for parents and partners to understand.

Mein | Live your future today. | Brand Foundation & Brand Kit

MEIN Website Content & Design Direction Brief

Website Purpose

The Mein website should be built as a mobile-first youth movement hub, not a traditional corporate website.

The goal is to make young people aged 13–25 feel:

- I am safe here.
- I belong here.
- This brand gets me.
- I can build something.
- My voice matters.
- I want to be part of this movement.

The website should introduce Mein, explain the movement, invite young people to participate, showcase youth creativity and stories, connect users to the Meet Future Me programme, and link to Shopify for ecommerce.

Core Brand Message

Mein is a youth movement for young people building who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time.

Brand Tone

The voice should be:

- Hopeful, but not cheesy.
- Bold, but not aggressive.
- Youthful, but not childish.
- Safe, but not boring.
- Energetic, but not fake hype.
- Clear, simple, and emotionally direct.

Avoid corporate, school-programme, therapy, or NGO-style language.

Use short phrases, strong headlines, and first-person language where possible.

Examples of tone:

- “You do not have to have it all figured out.”
 - “Start with one move.”
 - “Your voice belongs here.”
 - “Build who you are becoming.”
 - “This is for the future you are stepping into.”

Brand Design Direction

Colour Palette

Use the Mein brand colours consistently:

Electric Blue — #2F6BFF

Primary energy colour. Use for buttons, key highlights, section dividers, icons, hover states, movement graphics, and important calls to action.

Optimistic Gold — #F4B400

Use sparingly as an accent for hope, progress, future opportunity, badges, small highlights, arrows, stars, doodles, and “featured” markers.

Charcoal — #111111

Use for strong typography, body text, and high-contrast sections.

White / Light Background — #DDDDDD or cleaner white variations

Use generous white space. The brand should feel open, breathable, and modern.

Support Gray — #E6E9EE

Use for cards, dividers, form backgrounds, soft panels, and content blocks.

Typography

Use a modern geometric sans-serif style similar to Sora for headings and UI.

Use a handwritten accent style similar to Caveat only for small emotional notes, prompts, captions, or youth-style callouts.

Typography should feel clean, bold, slightly futuristic, and friendly.

Visual Language

The site should feel like a youth lifestyle brand and creative self-discovery movement.

Use:

- Open M icon as a recurring symbol.
- Portal / doorway shapes to represent entering the future.
- Path lines and arrows to show movement.
- Doodle accents: crowns, stars, underlines, smile marks, arrows.
- Swipeable cards on mobile.
- Vertical storytelling sections.
- Youth photography that feels real, expressive, diverse, confident, and natural.
- Short video areas and story previews.
- Merch-style graphics and sticker-like design elements.

Avoid:

- School brochure imagery.
- Corporate stock photos.
- Heavy blocks of text.
- Too many pages.
- Overly childish graphics.
- Overcrowded layouts.
- Too much gold.
- Neon effects on the core logo.

Website Structure

The website should feel simple and easy to move through.

Recommended Main Navigation

Use youth-facing labels:

1. Start Here
2. Join Mein
3. Make Your Move
4. Stories
5. Future Me
6. Shop

Footer / Secondary Navigation

Use adult-facing and support links:

- Why This Matters
- Parents & Consent
- Schools & Partners
- Community Rules
- Contact
- Privacy Policy
- Terms

The site should not feel overloaded. On mobile, use a sticky bottom action or floating button:

Purpose

The homepage should immediately communicate movement, belonging, safety, creativity, and possibility. It should not over-explain. It should pull young people in emotionally and make them want to tap, explore, join, or shop.

Hero Section

Headline

Building the right Mein Set.

Supporting Copy

A youth movement for young people ready to build who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time.

CTA Buttons

Primary: Join the Movement

Secondary: See the Stories

Small Supporting Line

Create. Express. Build. Become.

Design Direction

- Use a bold full-screen mobile hero.
- Include the Open M logo mark prominently.
- Use Electric Blue as the main hero accent.
- Use animated or layered path lines moving upward or forward.
- Consider a portal/doorway shape behind the hero headline.
- Add doodle accents in gold: small stars, arrows, underlines.
- Use real youth imagery or cutout-style youth silhouettes if photography is available.
- Keep text short and high contrast.

Homepage Section 2: What's Mein?

Headline

What's Mein?

Copy

Mein is a movement for young people building their future today. It is a space to create, share, grow, be seen, and take the next step toward who you are becoming.

CTA

Learn what we're building

Design Direction

Use three quick cards:

- Me in the future
- Me in motion
- Me in the story

Each card should have a short line and simple icon.

Homepage Section 3: Choose Your Move

Headline

How do you want to make your move?

Cards

Create

Share art, writing, ideas, designs, photography, poetry, or creative work.

Speak

Submit a video, tell your story, or share a future-self message.

Build

Explore the youth entrepreneur route and start shaping an idea.

Represent

Apply to become a content creator, youth voice, or Mein Mover.

CTA

Make Your Move

Design Direction

- Use swipeable cards on mobile.
- Cards should feel like social story cards or mission cards.
- Use Electric Blue card borders or headers.
- Use small gold accents for “new,” “featured,” or “start here.”
- Each card should include one clear action button.

Homepage Section 4: Why You Belong Here

Headline

You belong before you have it all figured out.

Copy

Mein is built to be a safe space for young people to express themselves, try ideas, tell stories, and take steps toward their future. You do not have to be perfect, popular, loud, or certain. You just have to be willing to make one move.

Safety Note

Public features are reviewed before posting. Young people under 18 need parent or guardian consent before names, images, videos, or social handles are shared.

Design Direction

- Use a calm, softer section with white or support gray.
- Add a “safe space” badge.
- Use warmer handwritten-style accents.
- Keep this section reassuring but still youth-friendly.

Homepage Section 5: Featured Mein Moves

Headline

Real moves. Real stories. Real futures.

Content Types

- Future-self letters

- Mein Mover videos
- Creative submissions
- Youth stories
- Behind-the-scenes merch drops

CTA

Explore the Stories

Design Direction

- Use a horizontal mobile carousel.
- Use image/video cards.
- Add category tags such as “Letter,” “Video,” “Art,” “Story,” “Drop.”
- Use staff-reviewed badges where relevant.

Homepage Section 6: Meet Future Me Teaser

Headline

Meet the future you.

Copy

Meet Future Me is a guided experience where young people imagine who they are becoming, speak as their future self, and use that message to build confidence, clarity, and action today.

CTA

Explore Future Me

Design Direction

Use a portal/doorway graphic, mirrored silhouette, or “message from future me” visual style.

Homepage Section 7: Shop Teaser

Headline

Wear what you’re building.

Copy

Mein merch is more than clothing. It is a reminder that your future is already in motion.

CTA

Shop the Drop

Design Direction

- Link to Shopify.
- Use merch mockups, lifestyle photos, or product cards.
- Do not make ecommerce overpower the movement.
- Shop should feel connected to identity and belonging.

Homepage Final CTA

Headline

Ready to make your move?

Copy

Join Mein and start building who you are becoming.

CTA

Purpose

This is the About page, but it should not be labelled "About Us" in the main youth navigation. It should explain the meaning, mission, and movement behind Mein in a simple and emotionally engaging way.

Hero

Headline

Mein is for the person you're becoming.

Copy

It is for the version of you that is still forming. The dream you are still figuring out. The idea you are scared to start. The story you have not told yet. The future you are ready to step into.

Section 1: What Mein Means

Headline

What does Mein mean?

Copy

Mein is about the future you are building.

It means:

- Me in the future — the person I am becoming.
- Me in 10 years — the bigger version of what I can become.
- Me in the story — I am not left out of my own future.
- Me in motion — I am not waiting. I am moving.

Section 2: Why Mein Exists

Headline

Because young people need more than advice.

Copy

Young people need space to be seen, heard, guided, and supported. They need real ways to express who they are, explore what they care about, and take steps toward the life they want.

Mein exists to help young people build hope, confidence, creativity, direction, and action.

Section 3: Our Mission

Headline

Our mission

Copy

To provide young people with tools, support, hope, and direction to shape the future they desire.

Section 4: What Makes Mein Different

Headline

This is not just motivation.

Copy

Mein is not just quotes, merch, or nice words. It is a movement that gives young people ways to create, speak, build, share, and step into who they are becoming.

Design Direction

- Use strong editorial layout with large headlines.
 - Mix clean text blocks with doodle notes.
 - Use portal/path graphics between sections.
 - Add small handwritten prompts like:
 - “Who am I becoming?”
 - “What move can I make today?”
 - “I’m building it.”
 - Use youth photos only if they feel real and unstaged.

Page 3: Join Mein / Join the Movement

Purpose

This is the main conversion page for young people. It should define what a Mein Mover is and guide users into the right participation path.

Hero

Headline

Become a Mein Mover.

Copy

A Mein Mover is someone building who they are becoming — one move, one idea, one story, one step at a time.

Any form of participation in Mein makes you a Mein Mover. You do not have to be famous, perfect, confident, or already successful. You just have to be willing to make a move.

CTA

Join the Movement

Section 1: Who Can Join?

Headline

This is for you if...

Copy Cards

- You are creative.
- You have a story to tell.
- You want to build something.
- You are still figuring things out.
- You want to be part of something positive.
- You want your future to feel possible.

Section 2: Ways to Join

Headline

Choose your way in.

Participation Cards

Join the Movement

Sign up as a Mein Mover and stay connected to opportunities, stories, drops, and youth challenges.

Submit Creative Work

Send in writing, art, photos, designs, poetry, or ideas for review.

Apply as a Content Creator

Create videos, posts, behind-the-scenes content, or youth-led media for Mein.

Upload a Video

Submit a video story, future-self message, creative clip, or Mein Mover feature for review.

Youth Entrepreneur Route

Tell us about a business idea, project, hustle, product, or dream you want to build.

Partner or Sponsor

For brands, organisations, and supporters who want to help young people move forward.

School or Programme Inquiry

For schools, youth groups, and institutions interested in bringing Mein to young people.

General Contact

For anything else.

Section 3: Safe Participation

Headline

How we keep it safe

Copy

Mein reviews public submissions before they are posted. If you are under 18, parent or guardian consent is required before your name, photo, video, work, or social handle is shared publicly.

Every Mein Mover is expected to follow the community rules and respect the safety, dignity, and creativity of others.

CTA

Start Your Mein Mover Form

Design Direction

- Build this as an interactive form hub.
- First ask: “How do you want to make your move?”
- Based on selection, show the relevant form.
- Use simple progress steps.
- Avoid long intimidating forms.
- Use friendly microcopy.
- Use cards, icons, and large tap targets for mobile.
- Add a “parent/guardian consent needed if under 18” notice where relevant.

This page is the action board of the movement. It should feel like a mission wall where young people can choose how they want to participate.

Hero

Headline

Your next move starts here.

Copy

You do not need to know every step. Choose one move and start there.

Featured Challenge Area

Headline

This month's move

Example placeholder copy:

Write a short letter to your future self. What do you want them to know about who you are becoming?

CTA: Take the Challenge

Design Direction

- Use mission cards.
 - Each move should feel like a challenge, not a form.
 - Use bold iconography.
 - Add progress/badge language such as “Move 01,” “Move 02,” etc.
 - Use swipeable cards on mobile.
 - Include animated path lines or arrows.
 - Consider gamified elements later: badges, featured movers, monthly missions.

Purpose

This page should showcase the life of the movement. It should make young people feel seen and make new visitors want to participate.

Hero

Headline

Real moves. Real stories. Real futures.

Copy

See what young people are creating, saying, building, and becoming through Mein.

Content Categories

Use filter tabs:

- Future-Self Letters
- Mein Mover Videos
- Youth Stories

- Creative Submissions
- Art Gallery
- Writing
- Behind the Scenes
- Merch Drops

Story Card Format

Each story card can include:

- Image/video thumbnail
- First name or approved display name
- Age range if appropriate, not required
- Category tag
- Short quote or teaser
- Approved social handle if consent provided
- “Staff reviewed” or “Shared with consent” note where relevant

Empty State Copy

If the page launches before many stories are available:

The first Mein stories are coming soon. Want yours to be one of them?

CTA: Submit Your Move

Safety Note

All public youth features are reviewed before posting. For young people under 18, parent or guardian consent is required before names, images, videos, social handles, or creative work are shared.

Design Direction

- Use a social-feed inspired layout.
- Mobile-first grid or masonry cards.
- Use filters at the top as horizontal scroll chips.

- Use strong visuals and minimal text.
 - Include video cards if possible.
 - Use Electric Blue for active filters.
 - Use Gold for featured/story badges.
 - Keep moderation and safety visible but not scary.

Page 6: Future Me / Meet Future Me

Purpose

This is the featured programme page. It should explain the guided future-self experience in a way that feels powerful, emotional, and youth-friendly.

Hero

Headline

Meet the future you.

Copy

Meet Future Me is a guided experience where you imagine who you are becoming, speak as your future self, and use that message to build confidence, clarity, and action today.

CTA

I Want to Meet Future Me

Section 1: How It Works

Headline

How it works

Steps

1. Imagine your future self

Think about who you are becoming and what kind of life you want to build.

2. Step into that version of you

Answer guided questions as if you are speaking from the future.

3. Record the message

Create a video or reflection from your future self back to your present self.

4. Listen to your own belief

Use your message as a reminder of what is possible.

5. Make your next move

Turn the future you imagined into one practical step today.

Section 2: Why It Matters

Headline

Sometimes the voice you need to hear is your own.

Copy

Young people hear advice from adults all the time. Meet Future Me helps them hear encouragement, direction, and belief from themselves — from the person they are becoming.

Section 3: Who It Is For

Headline

This is for you if...

Cards

- You feel unsure about your future.
- You have big dreams but do not know where to start.
- You want to feel more confident.
- You are creative and want to express yourself.
- You are ready to take your next step.
- You need a reminder that your future is possible.

CTA Section

Headline

Ready to meet Future Me?

CTA: Start the Experience

Design Direction

- Use a portal, mirror, doorway, or future-self visual.
 - Show present self / future self as a visual concept.
 - Use blue gradients lightly, but avoid heavy neon.
 - Include handwritten prompts.
 - Consider animated question cards.
 - Use a calm but powerful emotional tone.

Purpose

This page should connect the movement to ecommerce without making the site feel like only a store. Shopify will handle products, cart, checkout, orders, and payments.

Hero

Headline

Wear what you're building.

Copy

Mein merch is more than clothing. It is a reminder that your future is already in motion.

CTA

Shop the Drop

Section 1: Why Merch Matters

Headline

This is not just merch.

Copy

Every piece is built around the idea that young people can step into who they are becoming. When you wear Mein, you are carrying the message: I am building it.

Section 2: Featured Drops

Show Shopify product previews or link blocks:

- T-shirts
- Hoodies
- Caps
- Stickers
- Notebooks
- Limited drops

Section 3: Movement Phrase

Highlight Text

I'm building it.

Copy

A reminder for the days you feel ready — and the days you do not.

Design Direction

- Use lifestyle product photography.
- Use clean product cards.
- Use the Open M icon strongly.
- Use high contrast black, white, and Electric Blue.
- Gold should be used only as a small accent.
- Link directly to Shopify for purchasing.
- Keep the shop experience simple and fast on mobile.

Page 8: Why This Matters

Purpose

This page is mainly for parents, schools, sponsors, and partners. It should build confidence without making the whole website feel adult-facing.

Hero

Headline

Young people need more than motivation.

Copy

They need space to be seen, tools to grow, opportunities to express themselves, and support to take real steps toward their future.

Section 1: The Challenge

Headline

A lot of young people are trying to figure out where they fit.

Copy

Some are confident. Some are quiet. Some are creative but unsure. Some have ideas but no platform. Some need encouragement. Some need direction. Many are carrying dreams they have not had the chance to express.

Section 2: The Mein Response

Headline

Mein gives young people a place to start.

Copy

Through storytelling, creativity, future-self reflection, entrepreneurship, content, community, and youth-led expression, Mein helps young people build confidence, hope, identity, and action.

Section 3: What Young People Gain

Use cards:

- Confidence
- Belonging
- Creative expression
- Positive identity
- Direction
- Visibility

- Entrepreneurial thinking
- Safe participation
- A platform to be seen and supported

Section 4: For Parents

Headline

Safe, reviewed, and consent-aware.

Copy

Mein is designed to feel youth-led while still being responsible. Public submissions are reviewed by staff, and young people under 18 require parent or guardian consent before names, images, videos, social handles, or creative work are shared publicly.

Section 5: For Schools and Partners

Headline

A fresh way to engage young people.

Copy

Mein can support youth engagement, personal development, future planning, storytelling, creative showcases, entrepreneurship, content creation, and confidence-building.

CTA

Partner With Mein

Design Direction

- Use a cleaner, more credible layout.
- Keep youth energy, but make it easier for adults to understand.
- Use data/impact areas later when available.
- Use cards, icons, and simple statements.
- Avoid long dense paragraphs.

This page should clearly explain how youth safety, parental consent, content review, and public sharing work.

Hero

Headline

Keeping young people safe while helping them be seen.

Copy

Mein gives young people space to express themselves, but public sharing is handled with care, review, and consent.

Key Sections

Public Sharing

We may feature youth names, photos, videos, creative work, stories, or social handles only where the required consent has been provided.

Under 18 Consent

Young people under 18 need parent or guardian consent before public features are published.

Staff Review

Submissions are reviewed before being published publicly.

Community Rules

Content must be respectful, safe, original, and aligned with the values of the Mein movement.

Removal Requests

Parents, guardians, or featured youth can contact Mein to request review or removal of public content.

CTA

Contact Mein About Consent

Design Direction

- Make this simple and reassuring.
- Avoid legal-heavy language on the main page.

- Use FAQ accordion format.
 - Link to full policies if needed.

Page 10: Community Rules

Purpose

This page explains what kind of content and behaviour is allowed.

Hero

Headline

This movement is built on respect.

Copy

Mein is a space for creativity, courage, expression, and growth. To keep it safe, every Mein Mover must respect the people, stories, and ideas shared here.

Rules

1. Be respectful

No bullying, hate, harassment, or personal attacks.

2. Be original

Share your own work or give proper credit where needed.

3. Keep it safe

No harmful, dangerous, explicit, or illegal content.

4. Protect privacy

Do not share private information about yourself or others.

5. Build, do not tear down

Feedback should help people grow, not shame them.

6. Respect consent

Do not submit images, videos, or stories involving others without permission.

7. Stay aligned with the movement

Content should support creativity, growth, self-expression, hope, and positive action.

CTA

I'm Ready to Make My Move

Design Direction

- Use simple icons for each rule.
 - Keep tone firm but not scary.
 - Use youth-friendly language.
 - Add a short “safe space” statement at the top.

Purpose

Give users, parents, schools, partners, and sponsors a simple way to contact Mein.

Hero

Headline

Let's build the right Mein Set together.

Copy

Have a question, idea, partnership request, school inquiry, or opportunity for young people? Reach out.

Contact Options

Use cards:

Young People

Questions about joining, submitting, or becoming a Mein Mover.

Parents & Guardians

Questions about consent, safety, or public features.

Schools & Organisations

Bring Mein to your youth group, school, or programme.

Partners & Sponsors

Support youth creativity, entrepreneurship, and future-building.

General Contact

For everything else.

CTA

Send a Message

Design Direction

- Simple form.
 - Dropdown for inquiry type.
 - Mobile-friendly fields.
 - Add social media links.
 - Add Shopify support link separately if store issues are handled there.

Interactive Platform Features

Required Interactive Features

The website should include:

1. Main Form Hub

A single interactive form system beginning with:

How do you want to make your move?

Options:

- Join the movement
- Submit creative work
- Apply as content creator
- Upload video
- Youth entrepreneur interest
- Partner/sponsor interest

- School/programme inquiry
- General contact

The form should change based on the selected path.

2. Submission Review Workflow

All public-facing content must go through staff review before publishing.

Internal statuses:

- Received
- Under Review
- Needs Consent
- Approved
- Not Approved
- Published
- Archived

3. Parent/Guardian Consent Flow

For users under 18, collect:

- Youth name
- Youth age
- Parent/guardian name
- Parent/guardian email
- Parent/guardian phone
- Consent to display name
- Consent to display photo
- Consent to display video
- Consent to display creative work
- Consent to display social handle

- Agreement to community rules

4. Stories CMS

Admin should be able to publish:

- Future-self letters
- Mein Mover videos
- Youth stories
- Creative submissions
- Art gallery items
- Writing
- Behind-the-scenes merch drops

5. Shopify Connection

Main website should link to Shopify for:

- Product pages
- Cart
- Checkout
- Orders
- Payments
- Shipping

The main website can display selected product previews, but Shopify should handle ecommerce operations.

Mobile-First UX Direction

The mobile experience is the priority.

Mobile Requirements

- Fast loading.
- Large tap targets.

- Sticky “Make Your Move” button.
- Swipeable cards.
- Short sections.
- Minimal text on first view.
- Strong visuals.
- Clear CTAs.
- Youth-first navigation.
- No clutter.
- No overwhelming menu.

Suggested Mobile Flow

1. Hero: Building the right Mein Set.
2. Tap: Join the Movement.
3. Choose: Create, Speak, Build, Represent.
4. Complete short form.
5. See stories.
6. Explore Future Me.
7. Shop merch.

UX Principle

Do not make young people search for where they fit. Let them tap:

Create. Speak. Build. Represent.

Suggested Microcopy

Buttons

- Join the Movement
- Make Your Move

- Become a Mein Mover
- Submit Your Work
- Tell Your Story
- Upload Your Video
- Start Your Future Me
- Shop the Drop
- Partner With Mein
- Take the Challenge

Short Lines

- You belong before you have it all figured out.
- One move can start a future.
- Your voice belongs here.
- Show us what you're building.
- This is for who you're becoming.
- Create. Express. Build. Become.
- I'm building it.
- Live your future today.
- Start with one move.
- The future you is already in motion.

Designer Notes

The website should feel like:

- Youth lifestyle brand
- Creative movement
- Digital community

- Safe self-expression space
- Future-building platform
- Merch-connected identity brand

It should not feel like:

- A school website
- A government youth programme
- A therapy platform
- A corporate training site
- A plain ecommerce store
- A charity campaign

The strongest visual identity should come from:

- Open M icon
- Electric Blue
- Clean white space
- Gold accent moments
- Portal/path graphics
- Doodle details
- Real youth energy
- Mobile-first movement cards

Developer Notes

Suggested Build Structure

The site can be built with fewer main pages and strong sections:

1. Start Here
2. What's Mein?

3. Join Mein / Form Hub
4. Make Your Move
5. Stories
6. Future Me
7. Shop
8. Why This Matters
9. Parents & Consent
10. Community Rules
11. Contact

Some adult-facing pages can live in the footer only.

CMS Needed

Stories, videos, creative submissions, letters, art gallery, merch drops, and behind-the-scenes content should be CMS-managed.

Admin Needed

Admin should be able to:

- Review submissions
- Mark consent status
- Approve or reject content
- Publish to Stories
- Archive content
- Edit story categories
- Manage featured content
- Export form submissions

Integration Needed

- Shopify link or product preview integration
- Email notifications for new submissions

- File upload for creative work
 - Video link or file submission workflow
 - Parent consent collection
 - Social media links
 - Analytics tracking

Final Website Experience Statement

The Mein website should make a young person feel:

I am safe. I belong. I can create. I can speak. I can build. I can become.

The site should not just explain Mein.
